To Whom It May Concern:

April 11 2009

I would like to take the opportunity to share my experience with Dr. Kevin Bakar. My son Connor is an 11-year-old boy who was born with a unilateral cleft lip and palate. In the summer of 2007, we visited Dr. Bakar's office for an initial consultation. It was time for Connor to begin orthodontic treatment to expand his palate in preparation for alveolar bone grafting. In addition, Connor needed to simultaneously begin orthodontics to straighten his front teeth, as one front tooth was turned 180 degrees.

During the initial consultation, Dr. Bakar was professional and courteous to Connor and myself. As he examined Connor, he quickly addressed my immediate concerns without my having to mention them. He described to both of us what type of treatment to expect. His gentle demeanor put both of us at ease. Connor was made to feel as much a part of the process as I. He was included in the conversation and the process was described directly to him. Connor clearly understood the process he was going to go through.

As a parent of a child with a cleft palate, medical and dental visits are a frequent occurrence. I have an expectation of the quality of care that I believe my son deserves, and at times have been disappointed. This is not the case with Dr. Bakar. His care and concern for my son exceeded my expectations. Connor received top rate care under Dr. Bakar. Not only was he interested in him as a patient, Connor felt that Dr. Bakar was interested in him as a person. Taking him to appointments never elicited protests on Connor's part, even when he left with a sore mouth.

When the time came for surgery, our need for communication with Dr. Bakar increased. We needed to coordinate appointments and it was necessary for Dr. Bakar to be in touch with the oral surgeon. I never felt that this was a burden or hassle for Dr. Bakar. In fact, I felt confident that my son was a top priority. We were given Dr. Bakar's personal number and felt comfortable calling him when we needed to discuss plans for Connor's upcoming surgery. On the day of the surgery, it was necessary for us to leave early before his office opened. However, it was also necessary for Connor to have his palate expander removed. To ensure that it was done as close to surgery time as possible to avoid any collapse of Connor's palate, Dr. Bakar made arrangements to meet us at the office early. His thoughtfulness throughout the whole process helped to put us at ease as we navigated through a stressful time.

I am happy that Dr. Bakar has open his orthodontic office near my town. I would travel if necessary to make sure that my son can continue his care under such a caring and professional orthodontist. Not only will I use him as our family orthodontist, I will recommend his practice to friends. His attention to detail and the creativity with which he practices his craft is impressive. In addition, the rapport he builds with his clients is second to none.

Sincerely,
Karyn Eldridge
